To the Christian Reader.

I was not my meaning (Gentle Reader) whē I first published this little treatise, so soone againe to haue imprinted it: but after somemore distāce of time, & with more mature deliberation to haue perfourmed promise, of perfecting the same: yet en I saw the first impressiō so suddenly dispersed, & a greater number of copies required: I was content once againe to let it passe the presse, without that extreme and last hand which my desire was to haue put vnto it. But because I durst not so farre abuse thy patience, as in nothing to increase the former edition: it may please thee to vnderstand, that I haue taken care in good part, to better and to amend the same, for thy benefite. For besides the correction enlargement, and addition of manie neces-sarie and profitable things, I haue now also set downe in a maner the whole historie

of the Gospell, from point to point, as could collect the same out of the Euangelistes. Obseruing also after the iudgement of the best Chronographers of our age, the yeare and time wherein euery thing was done. Further, I haue distinguished the whole booke into sixe periods of yeares, as I thought would fitliest serue for the help
of thy memorie, and to auoyde confusion and tediousnesse in so great varietie. More-ouer, I haue added vnto this edition an index of the names of all the Patriarkes,
Popes, Kings, Prophets, Priests, Emperours,
Gouernours, Countreys, Citties, Personages, Bookes, &c. which though perhaps it may seeme to some in so small a volume altogether superfluous: yet I perswade my self thou shalt finde it in vse both pleasant and profitable vnto thee. Finally I haue now translated certaine tables of Codomannus
wherein wherein thou mayest at once see a conference and concurrence of times in the storie of the Patriarkes, Iudges, and Kings: which I haue placed in the ende of the booke, next before the table. For the things which alreadie I haue admonished thee of in my former preface, I thinke not necessarie now againe to trouble thee with them. Onely thou mayest vnderstand, that the principall causes of that difference which is betweene mine Author and Functius with others, in accounting the yeares of the world, by his adding to their number almost an hundred and fourescore yeares; these three, First, that Codomannus taking nothing from the yeares expressed in the storie of Iudges. Secondly, that according to S. Stephen Actes. 7. he setteth the death of Tharah before that peregrination of Abraham, which he being seuentie five yeares old, vndertooke at the commaundement of God, Genes. 12. And thirdly, that he beginneth the yeares of the Grecians raigne, mentioned in the booke of the Machabees, immediatly after the death of Alexander the Great. Wherein because his meaning was not to preiudicate the opinion of others, but simply to expresse his owne iudgement; it ought not to be anie occasion of offence. If it shal mislike thee that I haue taken so manie things out of the Apocrypha and other writers, besides the bookes of the Canonick Scriptures: it may please thee to vnderstand, that finding it done by mine Author, onely to continue the Historie, and for other complement, I could not conveniently neglect the same: holding firme neuerthelesse, that knowne and neuer difference in authoritie, which is betwixt the sacred monuments of the spirit of God and the fraile and doubtfull writings of men. Note also, that the yeare of the world commonly in this accompt begins at the moneth of Aprill. If anie further thing haue escaped the diligence of the Printer in so many numbers of so great difference I pray thee (gentle Reader) friendly to correct what thou findest to bee amiss. And so I bid thee most heartely farewell.

in the Lord, this eight day of Nouember.

DESCRIPTION OF TIME, FROM THE BEGINNING OF THE WORLD, VNTO THE YEARE C our Lord 137. containing 4279 yeares. Wherein

seuerall Histories of holy Scripture are briefly comprised, and placed in their iust order.

The whole may be deuided into
fixe periods.

The first period from Adam his Creation unto the birth of Noah 1056. yeares.

He first day of the world
God created Heauen
and earth, containing a
confused masse, wherof
afterwardes all things
were made. This day
was our Sunday, or the Lordes day: and as is thought, the 22. day of the moneth of Aprill.

Then God created the light, separated it frō the darkenesse, and called it Day. Genesis 1.1.5.

The second day being our Monday, God made the firmament, and called it by the name of Hea-uens. Gene. 1.6.8.

The third day which was our Tuesday, God sepa-

Day.

The fourth day being our Wednesday, God made & placed in the firmament of Heauē, the Sunne Moone, and Starres. Gen. 1. 14. This day being the fife and twentieth of Aprill, was that time of the Spring wherein the dayes and nights are of one length. Then also the Moone was in the Prime. Other referre the Creation vnto the moneth of September.

Fish and foules.

5
Day.

The fifth day which was our Thursday, God made the fishes and foules, with all that liue in the waters, and flie in the aire. Gen. 1. 20. 23.

Beasts, &c.

6
Day.

The sixth day, our Friday, God created first all beaſt and things creeping vpon the earth. Gen. 1. 24. 3. Secondly Adam and Eue according to the image of God. Gen. 1. 26. The same day marriage was instituted. Gen. 2. 22. 23.

Man and woman.
Mariage.

7
Day.

The seventh day, our Saturday, God hauing finished his worke of creation, ceased or rested. He sanctified this day vnto man, and called it Sabbath. Gen. 2. 3.

The Sabbath.

Creation of Angels.

The creation of the Angels is most probably assigned vnto the first day. Of these some hold the integritie of their creation, and are called holy and elect Angels; some are false, and called Devils, whose fall is most certaine; but the time of their fall vncertaine: sauing that they must needs fall before the fall of man.

The fall of Angels.

The fall of Man.

The fall of Adam and Eue being most certaine, the day and time is also vncertaine: and therefore it is curiositie to inquire, where the word keepeth silence, and boldnesse to pronounce. That they fell not the day of their creation, beside the multitude holy Scripture.Adam.

tritude and varietie of things done before and after the same day, which required tract of time: This seemeth plainly to argue, that the sixth day is concluded by Moles, with these wordes: And God beheld all that he had made, and lo it was exceeding good: so the evening and morning was made the sixth day. Codemannus assigneth Adams fall vnto the nineteenth day of the world, which was the foureteenth of the first moneth, & the tenth of May. His reason is from the institution of the Pascoer. Exod. 12. Some referre it vnto the eight day, in the which Christ rose from the dead.

the same day wherein they fell, they receaued the promise of grace in the seede of the woman, which should breake the Serpentes head. Gen. 2.15.

at the end of the first yeare of the world were borne Caiin and Abel (if they were twinnes.) If also these were the first of Adams children, as should appeare by the reason of Caiin his name. Gene. 4.1.

After this vnto the murder of Abel, the familie of Adam was greatly multiplied in both sexes. And therefore the same is most fitly to be assigned vnto the yeare .129. or not much lesse. 129. Gen. 4.8.

About the ende of this yeare Seth was borne, in whom the line of Christ was recontinued, which seemed vnto Eue to be broken off in the death of Abel. Gene. 5.3.

Noah was borne, when Seth his father was one hundred and fuyeeares old. Genes. 5. 6. Then began Religion to be corrupted euen in the Church and house of Adam, by familiaritie and entermaying with the house of Caiin. Genes. 4. 26. 54. 6. 2.

		At this time reigned Melchisedec king of Salem, who was Priest of the most high God, met Abram returning from the battell, releued him with victuals, blessed him, and receaued tithes of his spoyles. Some without great cause haue thought him to be Sem: but it is more modestie and lesse danger to follow the Apostle, who from the silence of Moses in this part, testifieth, that he was a figure of Christ: and not by seeking his name and parentage, to destroy the figure, and controule the spirit of God. Hebr. 7. 3. Gene. 14. 18. Tremelius & Iunius call him Regulum Canaanum , that is, A litle Cananite king.
		After this, God againe appeared to Abram, who complained of his barrenesse: God promised him a sonne of his owne body, and that his seed should be multiplied as the starres of heauen: which Abram beleued, and it was imputed vnto him for righteousness. God foretold the bondage of Abram his seed in a strange land, and their deliuerance, in the fourth generation. He confirmed the promise of the land of Canaan. Gen. 15.

FINIS.

Gentle Reader be pleased to vnderstand that the Tables following the pag.98. taken out of Codomannus, do two of them by error want their titles, which I thought good to adde in this place. The first therefore next following the pag.98 is a conference of the ages of the fathers before the floud. The third, contains the yeares from the.123. of Isaac his age, vnto the death of Salomon.
